Georgia State Flag To Fly At Post Home When Delegation Visits

Bucks County made a good showing yesterday in the annual parade, staged in connection with the national convention of the American Legion in Philadelphia. Several Legion posts and auxiliaries, a Pennsylvania National Guard unit, junior and senior cadet drum and bugle corps, from this part of Pennsylvania were represented, along with organizations from all over the United States.

The parade required 13 hours to pass a given point; and many from Bristol and all parts of Bucks County were among the thousands who witnessed it. Countless others viewed the parade on their television sets; and had the pleasure of seeing their favorite organizations televised.

The Penna. delegation started to march at 7:14 p. m., having 10,000 in line.

Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, here, had the honor of having in line one of the two World War I veterans who wore their "1918 uniforms." The Bristolian was Joseph Schreiber, Sr., of Pine Street. The other man wearing a World War I uniform was a member of the Third Division, Philadelphia, who marched with Bristol post.

Bracken Post Cadet Junior Drum & Bugle Corps received a big hand; and their plexiglas drums, designed and made through efforts of Rohm & Haas Co. and the Bracken Post, were admired by all who saw them glistening in the sun. These drums received a "plug" over the television program, the Bristol unit being televised last evening.

Also televised was Helene Spezzano, Bristol's eight-year-old majorette, a member of the Bracken Post Cadet Corps. Helene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Spezzano, 215 Franklin street, has during her three years of membership in the cadet corps marched in many parades. She paraded in New York.

Activities of Interest To All in The Various Communities

GLEANEY BY SCRIBES

The Rev. John F. Fogarty, rector of the Church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, is enroute home to Doylestown, following several weeks stay in Ireland. The clergyman is expected tomorrow.

A car operated by an octogenarian and a motorcycle on which a 22-year-old county seat young man was riding crashed at Collegeville, Saturday. The Bucks County youth, Robert Smith, 22, was removed to Montgomery Hospital, Norristown, he suffering a compound fracture of the left leg, possible fracture of the knee-cap and other injuries. Driver of the motorcycle, William N. Reiss, Kulpsville, sustained deep lacerations of his right side and other injuries. He, too, was removed to the hospital.

Cadwallader Clegg, 80, of Collegeville R. D. 2, operating the automobile, was not hurt. It is stated that Clegg was driving west on Germantown Pike, 2½ miles east of Collegeville, and attempted a left turn into a farm lane. Reiss was turning his motorcycle east on the same pike when the crash occurred. Smith was wed in June, and is employed by a Doylestown firm.

The Rev. Edmund E. Beiber, Lutheran pastor of the Durham-Springtown parish, as guest speaker at a harvest home program at a meeting of the Plumsteadville Grange, Friday evening, compared the lives of most people with a big tree in and out of season. Worthy Master Raymond Griggs presided.

Speaking to 45 Grangers, the Rev. Mr. Beiber related the story of a barren fig tree which was about to be cut down but the caretaker asked that the fig tree be permitted to DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 31—The body of a man fatally hurt when struck by an automobile as he walked along Easton highway, near Warrington, last week, has been identified. Bernard J. Quinn, Newark, N. J., has claimed the body as that of his brother, Richard Quinn.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Major General Harry F. Vaughan denied yesterday before a Senate subcommittee investigating the influence of "five percenters" on Government contracts that he had ever acted dishonestly or improperly. President Truman's military aide said that whatever help he might have given business men was without the President's approval or knowledge. He did say he had received campaign funds from John F. Maragon and William Helis, named in previous testimony.

Prospects of an early adjournment of Congress rose when Senator Lucas said he would ask President Truman to defer amendments to the Reciprocal Trade Program until the next session. A week-long Labor Day recess may be agreed to if the Senate completes action today on a wage-hour law. The Administration fought attempts to widen exemptions under the measure.

A $2,000,000 plan to develop the water resources of California's Central Valley was submitted to Congress by Interior Secretary Krug. The measure, virtually eliminating participation by the Army Engineers, was approved by President Truman.

NEW LAWS EFFECTIVE IN PENNA. TOMORROW

New Ice Cream and Cold Storage Laws Now In Effect

OTHER LEGISLATION

HARRISBURG, Aug. 31—(INS)—There will be some legal changes made tomorrow.

That's when 249 new State laws are placed officially on the statute books.

Most important of the new statutes taking effect is one requiring all vehicles to come to a full stop when approaching a school bus loading or discharging children.

Apply to 3,900,000 motorists and 200,000 children who regularly ride school buses, the act is designed to eliminate school bus accidents. The law will be effective in all non-residential areas and places where there are no off-the-highway loading zones.

One clause of the act requires all new buses and those re-painted henceforth to be painted "national school bus chrome"—a brighter shade than the present orange color. Other sections require all buses to be equipped with front and rear stop signals and yearly examinations for drivers beginning July 1, 1950.

Other school laws effective tomorrow are topped by statutes providing more liberal pensions for retired teachers. In effect, the acts increase pensions to a $100 monthly minimum for nearly half of the commonwealth's retired classroom instructors.

Major changes in the State's liquor laws also will go into effect. The most noticeable change will be that requiring all liquor and beer establishments to remove all outdoor brand display advertising and

VIEWERS ARE AIRED ON PROPOSED ZONING LAW

Individuals Express Opinions At Public Meeting Held Here

NOW UP TO COUNCIL

Council President Charles Rathke Presides At Session

Bristol's proposed zoning law was given another airing, last evening, when a public meeting under the direction of borough council, was held in the municipal building. The hearing was on the revised ordinance or the final report to council by the Bristol Zoning Commission. Two previous hearings were held on the preliminary report of the commission several weeks ago, and the report discussed last evening was the final or revised report of the commission, after numerous suggestions and recommendations developing out of the previous meetings had been incorporated in the final report.

Charles G. Rathke, president of council, presided. One-half of the membership of council was present. Those attending were Councilmen Byers, Alta, Myers, Wallace, Egan, Riley and Pearson. Borough Solicitor John Leslie Kilcoyne, Esq., sat in as an observer. Councilman Eagan served as secretary.

Members of the Zoning Commission present were J. B. Johnson, chairman; Harold Hanson, Dr. P. M. Vassaluzzo and Fred Weik.

Two representatives of the Government Consulting Service, Institute of Local and State Government, University of Pennsylvania, Charles Cella and Malcolm Webb, were in attendance. This institute has furnished the technical advice necessary in preparation of the proposed ordinance.

Numerous opinions were expressed and most of those speaking took exceptions to the proposed law. There was no organized opposition, last evening, such as there had been at previous hearings, when the Chamber of Commerce, Mill Street business men, Harriman business men, and others presented oral and written suggestions.

The meeting, last evening, is the final one to be held before the proposed law is submitted to council for action. Whether the law will be taken up immediately by council has not been indicated.

In opening the session Chairman Rathke informed those present that it was a public hearing held by council for the purpose of receiving suggestions and recommendations and to afford an opportunity to the public to discuss the law. "No decisions will be made tonight," he stated. "Questions will be answered."

The first question came from Elwood Bilger, who asked: "What is the purpose of zoning?"

The answer given by Mr. Cella was to the effect that zoning is an instrument by which a municipality can control its development for its own general welfare.

The question was asked as to the effect on taxation and the answer

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan (Distributed by International News Service)

Two new boons to mankind are the remote-controlled lawnmower and the concrete guitar.

The Massachusetts man who invented the concrete guitar had nothing special in mind for it, he just likes to dabble in concrete, but it would be a handy thing to have at a Paul Robeson concert.

With a couple of musicians equipped with concrete guitars, six or seven with iron flutes and one man with a bronze bass fiddle Mr. Robeson would have NOT only an orchestra but a task force.

Tracing back what happened in Westchester it appears that Mr. Robeson may have been mistaken for a Democrat in high-test Republican territory.

Anyway this electronic lawnmower is a real gift to us all. A fellow can mow his lawn while sitting in the living room merely by moving a small lever on a small box.

And I understand that when a neighbor wants to borrow the lawnmower, moving the lever the opposite direction locks the wheels so he can't budge it. This is worth money.

SKUNKS BY OTHER NAMES

Federal Trade Commission's idea that fur coat makers should call a rabbit a rabbit and a skunk a skunk merits public applause. If there is any place where more "truth in advertising" is needed, it is in fur labeling.

Henry Miller, director of the bureau of trade practice conferences, told a House committee recently that rabbit fur is sold under more than 50 names, none of which is rabbit. He said skunk is called just about everything but that, and ordinary Muskrat is sold as Hudson seal, brook mink, river sable, hudsonia, water mink and the like.

The point made by Miller is that tacking fancy names onto the skins of ordinary animals makes it easy to deceive the public. He also argued that it puts reputable manufacturers and merchants at a disadvantage in competing with less scrupulous rivals. Certainly purchasers do not know what they are buying under the phony fur-labeling system.

Obviously, the purpose in attaching fancy names to fur coats made of the skins of common, ordinary animals is to fool the buyers. Undoubtedly there are people who will buy Arctic seal, beaveret, martine, hudsonia, chinchillas, visonnet, muskratine, but would not be interested if they knew that it was only rabbit.

And some who would turn up their noses at a skunk coat would enthuse over it when it is called dipped marten, black marten or Alaska sable. But there should be honest labeling, even for fur coats.

WHALES THAT GO PING

The underwater search gear used by the Navy during the war used the echo principle to find and locate submarines and underwater objects. The apparatus, it might be said, had a mouth and ears. It made a sound — a high pitched "ping" — and listened to hear what happened to it.

If the impulse hit a solid object, it bounced back, making an other "ping." The interval between pings was converted electronically into range and bearing.

The cars also could hear the pings of other searchers, such as submarines. In the Pacific, ships on many occasions picked up pings but couldn't find the source.

An expert on oceanography now tells the Navy Department to strike the reports of phantom ships out of its combat annals. They weren't phantoms or Jap secret weapons. They were whales. The scientist, whose name, appropriately, is Mrs. Marie Fish, said whales evidently need some help in getting around, so nature built into them an echo range gimmick that can go ping as well as any busy subcarrier.

It was common knowledge bats used the radar principle. Now it turns out that whales have a highly developed echo-range machine. Proving that it doesn't pay to get stuck up about man's scientific accomplishments. He drops his guard for a minute, and look what happens. Dame nature throws in something like these pinging whales.

Views Are Aired On The Proposed Zoning Law

was "no direct effect on taxation." However the answer was elaborated upon and it was stated that zoning does have some effect on land values.

M. J. Hill, well-known real estate broker, wanted to know what started the idea of zoning in Bristol. "What is the necessity for it?" he asked. He said that he had been instrumental in getting some big industries here and that others had wanted to come here recently, but that he had turned them away because of the zoning agitation.

"It seems to me that the whole thing is wrong," he said. "I don't know that we need zoning here." He said that Bristol is an industrial community and that industry should not be kept out.

Mr. Rathke told Mr. Hill that if Bristol had had zoning 25 years ago that it would now be a better town. He explained how now there is no law here which prohibits objectionable properties alongside of those which are considered an asset to the community. "We might have had a much better approach to the town if we had had a zoning law," said Mr. Rathke.

W. E. Hayes said that in his opinion we needed more factories in Bristol to put people to work. To this statement Mr. Rathke made it plain that nothing in the zoning law will keep factories out of Bristol. "We're not trying to keep industries out," said Councilman Edward Riley.

A spokesman for Mrs. Vincent Zober asked that her property at the corner of McKinley street and Farragut avenue be taken out of an R-2 area (for residences only) and placed in a C (commercial) area.

She said that Mrs. Zober owns half of the property at this particular location and that the requested change would not affect any one else. Mrs. Zober, it was stated, purchased the site with the idea of having a little store. It was indicated that she should present her request to council before the ordinance is enacted into law.

12, 13 and 14. Because not all children were enrolled last May and June, another registration for Falls and Lower Makefield township kindergarten children will be held on Monday, Sept. 12, in the kindergarten rooms.

Since both Falls and Lower Makefield kindergartens run morning and afternoon sessions (a half-day session for each child) it will be necessary for transportation officials to arrange noon bus routes from completed registration lists. This information will be available on Wednesday, September 14th.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

That Unmade Apology

Washington, Aug. 31.
THE recent demand of Judge Samuel J. Rosenman, best-known member of the President's "fact-finding" board to examine into the controversy between the CIO and the United States Steel Company, for an apology from Mr. A. B. Homer, president of the Bethlehem Steel Company, is not without its comic aspect.

FOR these questions arise—wherein was Mr. Rosenman, famed as a speech writer and handy literary man for the late Mr. Roosevelt, insulted? What did Mr. Homer say about him and his two New Deal, pro-CIO colleagues that was not true? First, Mr. Homer charged that the appointment of the board was "irregular." There is no possible denial to that. Quite clearly, Mr. Truman named the board in order to bypass the perfectly simple provisions for exactly this sort of crisis contained in the Taft-Hartley Act, which both Mr. Truman and his violent friend, Mr. Philip Murray of the CIO, denounce as a "slave law." Second, Mr. Homer asserted that the "fact-finding board" is a "vehicle to force important concessions to the labor union." Well, certainly a similar board in 1946 recommended an 18 1/2 per cent increase for the steel union, which was exactly in line with Mr. Truman's attitude and the CIO's demand.

THE third assertion of Mr. Homer was that this board had been named by Mr. Truman after conference with Mr. Murray, in whom he is politically linked. Precisely which of these allegations caused Mr. Rosenman to feel insulted, no one has revealed. All of them have been repeatedly printed in the newspapers of the country and proudly set forth in CIO propaganda. The White House has not disputed them. Nor, so far as known, has anyone save Judge Rosenman and the violent Mr. Murray taken umbrage at them. That in naming the board Mr. Truman deliberately evaded the Taft-Hartley law to please the CIO; that the 1946 "fact-finding" board had the same political motivation and that he had consulted Mr. Murray about the personnel of the present board has been so widely accepted as to be practically unanimous.

AS a matter of fact, Mr. Homer's charges were couched in moderate language and, under the circumstances, he exhibited considerable restraint. There are a number of persons who feel—and some have said in print—that the board is a joke and a fraud so far as "fact-finding" is concerned; that it is padded with Administration stooges and CIO partisans; that it is rigged to play the CIO-Administration game; that no unprejudiced report can be expected from it. If Judge Rosenman felt insulted by the conservative assertions of Mr. Homer it would be interesting to know what would have been his reaction had Mr. Homer expressed the more extreme views given above and which are held by a great majority of the industrialists of the country. If he demanded an apology for what Mr. Homer said, what would he have demanded had Mr. Homer let himself go and given an unabridged expression of the industry's feelings? One should think. He might have demanded the death sentence.

BEING unable to think of anything he had said that was untrue, unfair or insulting, Mr. Homer did not apologize. He just left Judge Rosenman's demand hanging in the air.

where it still is. Of course, a situation conceivably might arise that would make it seem Mr. Homer owed the judge an apology, and in such a situation, doubtless, Mr. Homer would be glad to apologize. Washington, Aug. 31.
THE recent demand of Judge Samuel J. Rosenman, best-known member of the President's "fact-finding" board to examine into the controversy between the CIO and the United States Steel Company, for an apology from Mr. A. B. Homer, president of the Bethlehem Steel Company, is not without its comic aspect.

FOR these questions arise—wherein was Mr. Rosenman, famed as a speech writer and handy literary man for the late Mr. Roosevelt, insulted? Of course, a situation conceivably might arise that would make it seem Mr. Homer owed the judge an apology, and in such a situation, doubtless, Mr. Homer would be glad to apologize. For example, it is possible—not probable, of course, but possible—that Judge Rosenman's board, disregarding the CIO's paid-for Nathan report and Mr. Truman's known attitude, should make a report so clearly unbiased that there would be no room for charges of political subservience and pre-conceived opinions.

TO repeat, this is not likely, but it is possible. For example, Judge Rosenman is an able and upright man. For years he has been accustomed to taking dictation from men who certainly were not his intellectual equals, writing their speeches, accepting their views, making his language conform to their personal and political slants. Sometimes it must have been a strain on an intelligent man such as he. He must, sometimes, have seen the falseness in their positions and the flaws in their reasoning. Conceivably, Judge Rosenman might find—and welcome—in his present situation an opportunity to make a report that would be completely his own, reflect only his personal views, promote the interests of the nation as a whole without thought of politics or special groups. It is not likely he will do that, but there is a chance here for Judge Rosenman to make a reputation so good that no one would remember him as a ghost writer.

WORLD WAR II began just 10 years ago tomorrow—on Sept. 1, 1939, when German troops crossed the Polish border. It lasted exactly six years, ending with the surrender of Japan to the Allies on Sept. 1, 1945. In that period the major nations of the world spent a staggering sum, running into many hundreds of billions of dollars, to prosecute the conflict. Casualties for the major nations involved, totaled in the millions. Of the leaders of the six major nations involved, only two survive—former Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain and Premier Josef Stalin of Russia. United States President Franklin D. Roosevelt died of a cerebral hemorrhage in 1945, near war's end. Reichschancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany apparently committed suicide. Italian Premier Benito Mussolini was killed by Italian Partisans and Premier Tojo of Japan was executed for his war crimes. Pictured are some of the most important events and personalities of the war, together with new weapons developed during the conflict. (International) signs, and limiting window and point-of-sale advertisements.

Other new liquor laws tighten eligibility requirements for hotel drink-dispensing permits and increase from 72 to 144 ounces the amount of beer permitted to be sold by taproom operators for off-the-premises consumption.

Chief change in the Motor Code is a statute increasing from $50 to $100 the minimum damage required to be reported to the State Revenue Department in motor vehicle accidents.

A long-range highway program will be set in motion as the result of a new act which authorizes a $400,000 survey by an 11-man Highway Planning Commission. The Commission will report its findings to the Governor by November 1, 1950.

Other new laws will: Penalize with a maximum one year jail sentence, or $1000 fine, any person maliciously furnishing false or libelous information to newsmen, newspapers, magazines, radio or television stations; make malicious loitering about a dwelling a punishable crime; allow Pennsylvania beneficiaries to collect payments from out-of-state mail order insurance companies with the aid of the State Insurance Department or Federal courts; prohibit pharmacists to make rebates to physicians for prescription business.

The 1949 General Assembly enacted legislation including a Department of Agriculture budget item of $2,250,000 for control and eradication of diseases of livestock. This will make possible the starting of a program of free vaccination of beef and dairy calves in the State's fight against Bang disease, greatest scourge of cattle now existing in Pennsylvania, says Miles Horst, secretary of agriculture.

On the consumer side, new ice cream and cold storage laws become effective September 1, along with an act of the Legislature to register and control establishments where horses are slaughtered for animal feeding. This latter statute is designed to prevent horse meat, including that taken from animals that die of natural causes, from getting into channels for human consumption.

Amendments to simplify enforcement by the Department of Agriculture of eleven existing food laws also become effective September 1. Another amendment gives milk dealers permission to standardize or make uniform the butterfat content of the milk they distribute, effective September 1. Such standardization is not compulsory, however.

Farm legislation approved by Governor Duff and now in effect, includes refund of 50 per cent of the State tax on gasoline used in food production on farms; removal of red tape in the granting of permits and substantial reduction in fees for the movement of combines and other large farm machines over public highways; use of sulfanilamide in feeds prepared by licensed feed dealers without necessity of a practitioner's prescription for prevention and control of poultry diseases; State aid for barberry eradication in control of stem rust of grain crops; funds for investigational work in nut tree culture; State funds for the purchase of livestock for experimental work and propagation at the Pennsylvania State College, and funds to continue research at the Agricultural Experiment Station at the college.

Four changes in Pennsylvania weights and measures laws, enacted by the 1949 session of the Legislature, will become effective September 1, Secretary of Internal Affairs, William S. Livengood, Jr., announced today.

Act 159, approved April 21, 1949, changes the penalty section in the fruit and vegetable unbroken standard container act to conform with penalty sections in all other weights and measures laws providing a compulsory minimum fine of $25 for the first offense.

Act 160, approved April 21, 1949, is an amendment to the solid fuel laws. In addition to the vehicle license number required to be inserted on weighmaster's certificates, the trailer number must also be inserted on the certificate when a trailer is used, under the amended law, which permits the confiscation of weighmaster's certificates by inspectors of Weights and Measures from the place of issue for use as evidence in prosecution. Any person furnishing a false name or address of a purchaser to a licensed weighmaster will be in violation of the law and subject to the penalties thereof.

Act 214, approved May 2, 1949, provides that any state, county or city inspector of weights and measures in whose presence a violation of the commodity act is being committed by any person who has no established business location in the Commonwealth will have power to arrest without warrant the offender and take him before an alderman, magistrate or justice of the peace of the city or county where the offense is committed and file information against the offender.

Act 330, approved May 11, 1949, regulates delivery of light fuel oil to domestic consumers. No person, under this act, may deliver light fuel oil to any domestic consumer unless the vehicle is equipped with a meter of a type approved under the provisions of the act of the General Assembly of May 5, 1921. Fuel oil deliveries of 50 gallons or less may be delivered without being metered provided the delivery is made in a standard approved measure of not less than five gallons capacity.

The act does not affect the deliveries of heavy fuel oils or light fuel oils to industrial plants nor where the entire truck tank load of light fuel oil or the entire load of an individual compartment of the truck tank is delivered to a single domestic consumer, provided the tank truck is of a type approved as per provisions of the act approved May 5, 1921.

Acting Secretary of Revenue Otto F. Messner announced today that the law in regard to reporting motor vehicle accidents is subject to an important change on September 1, 1949.

The 1949 Legislature revised the limit for reporting property damage from $50 to $100, which is the minimum figure for reporting damage to the property of any one person.

This means that a person involved in a motor vehicle accident in which any motor vehicle or any other property is damaged to the extent of one hundred dollars ($100.00) or more must report the accident to the Department of Revenue within twenty-four (24) hours, under penalty of suspension of his operator's license. It was pointed out that the obligation is on the individual operator, from which he is not relieved because some one else rendered a report, or if the operator himself renders a report to some other agency, such as an insurance company, a motor club, a local police department, the I.C.C. or the P.U.C.

Messner particularly stressed the fact that there had been no change in the law in regard to injury or death to any persons, regardless of the amount of property damage. If an operator is in doubt of his duty under the law to report an accident, the safest plan is to fill out a form and send it to the Department.

The Department advises all agencies and operators that the forms now in their hands may be used until such time as it is possible to secure and furnish revised forms carrying the new property damage limit. New forms are now being printed and will be distributed as soon as they are received by the Department.

Bucks Well Represented In National Parade

N. Y., two years ago; and in Philadelphia last year. She readily answered a few questions put to her as she was televised during the parade. Helene, a pupil at St. Ann's parochial school, will enter third grade this year.

Bracken Post Cadets' uniforms of cream and orange (with hats of mother of pearl and orange plumes) made a striking note of color in the line of march.

The Jesse W. Soby Post Junior Drum and Bugle Corps members attracted much attention in their blue and white uniforms. They, too, passed the reviewing stand during the evening hours. Soby Post Cadet Corps has in its membership many girls and boys from the Langhorne, Pennell, Hulmeville and Middletown township areas.

Bracken Post Senior Drum and Bugle Corps, composed of overseas

veterans, was also roundly applauded.

Another Bucks County unit in the parade was Company D, 11th Infantry Regimental Combat Team, Penna. National Guard, Doylestown. Capt. Aaron C. Griffiths, Jr., was in command of approximately 40 guardsmen in sultan uniforms, white gloves, helmet liners, and carrying arms.

This afternoon the state flag of Georgia will fly from the pole at Bracken Post home on the occasion of the visit by a delegation from Georgia. In the group will be several delegates who are backing Earl Coker, Jr., of Georgia, for national commander. The guests will visit the post home, then take a tour to Manhattan Soap Company, and to Pennsbury Manor.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. William E. Hakes
Minister
First Baptist Church

"Without the shedding of blood there is no remission for sin." Sin cannot be covered by good works, no matter how sincerely they may be carried out. There can be no forgiveness of sin apart from the suffering on Calvary by the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ. He did not die because He was tricked into the cross. He did not die because he was a martyr. He did not die to show us how a good man ought to die. Jesus died that by the shedding of sinless blood, all who believe might be redeemed from their sins and have eternal life in him. In order to offer you salvation, Jesus Christ had to pass through the suffering of a death that no man shall experience as He did. He would not have done this, except that there was no other way. Trust this same Jesus as your Lord and Savior today.

Gas When You Need It

THE DEMAND for gas varies with every whim of weather or family pleasure. Let the mercury hit the torrid nineties in summer, and the call for gas falls off. When it dives below freezing in winter, on go the burners. Returning vacationists, maids' days off, a sudden week-end exodus, and all manner of other things have a part in influencing the call for more gas or less gas, often in a brief period. Yet come what may, the gas must be there when needed.

Every hour the demand fluctuates along the 1,900 miles of Philadelphia Electric Company's gas pipe lines. To assure a steady pressure at every point, for every hour of the day or night, your gas company maintains scores of recording stations throughout its territory. The rise and fall of the use of gas, as burners go on and off, is recorded hour by hour at these stations, and flashed to distribution centers, where pressure is regulated.

Seeing that gas is always ready is the full-time job of the men and women of the gas department of the Company. Their expert "know how" and conscientious effort, plus round-the-clock attention to details, explains why there is quality gas and the right pressure awaiting your call at all times.

BUCKS CO. WELL REPRESENTED IN NATIONAL PARADE

Bracken Post Units, Soby Post Corps Among Those Televised

FEATURE MAJORETTE

Georgia State Flag To Fly At Post Home When Delegation Visits

Bucks County made a good showing yesterday in the annual parade, staged in connection with the national convention of the American Legion in Philadelphia. Several Legion posts and auxiliaries, a Pennsylvania National Guard unit, junior and senior cadet drum and bugle corps, from this part of Pennsylvania were represented, along with organizations from all over the United States.

The parade required 13 hours to pass a given point; and many from Bristol and all parts of Bucks County were among the thousands who witnessed it. Countless others viewed the parade on their television sets; and had the pleasure of seeing their favorite organizations televised.

The Penna. delegation started to march at 7:14 p. m., having 10,000 in line.

Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, here, had the honor of having in line one of the two World War I veterans who wore their "1918 uniforms." The Bristolian was Joseph Schreiber, Sr., of Pine street. The other man wearing a World War I uniform was a member of the Third Division, Philadelphia, who marched with Bristol post.

Bracken Post Cadet Junior Drum & Bugle Corps received a big hand; and their plexiglas drums, designed and made through efforts of Rohm & Haas Co. and the Bracken Post, were admired by all who saw them glistening in the sun. These drums received a "plug" over the television program, the Bristol unit being televised last evening.

Also televised was Helene Spezzano, Bristol's eight-year-old majorette, a member of the Bracken Post Cadet Corps. Helene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Spezzano, 215 Franklin street, has during her three years of membership in the cadet corps marched in many parades. She paraded in New York.

Exonerated By Jury At Coroner's Inquest

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 31—A 29-year-old New Jersey recreational director, who had been arrested on a technical charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of a 30-year-old World War 2 veteran in an automobile accident near Pipersville, on June 19, has been exonerated by a Bucks county Coroner's jury.

He is William F. Case, of Mount Pleasant road, Milford, N. J., RD. He was charged with the death of Elmer Hammerstone, 28, of 908 Tenth street, Frenchtown, N. J., who was riding with Case when the car failed to make a turn, and crashed into a guard rail on a steep hill near Myers' Dam, east of Pipersville.

Case, the driver of the car, and Herbert V. Smith, 30, of Everettstown road, Frenchtown, both of whom appeared at the inquest here yesterday on crutches, were badly injured.

State Trooper Edward C. Gunster, of the Doylestown sub-station, testified that the trio had been attending a class reunion in Doylestown, Hammerstone, who was killed instantly, became the father of a child the day that he was killed.

Activities of Interest To All in The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

The Rev. John F. Fogarty, rector of the Church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, is enroute home to Doylestown, following several weeks stay in Ireland. The clergyman is expected tomorrow.

A car operated by an octogenarian and a motorcycle on which a 22-year-old county seat young man was riding crashed at Collegeville, Saturday. The Bucks County youth, Robert Smith, 22, was removed to Montgomery Hospital, Norristown, he suffering a compound fracture of the left leg, possible fracture of the knee-cap and other injuries. Driver of the motorcycle, William N. Reiss, Kulpsville, sustained deep lacerations of his right side and other injuries. He, too, was removed to the hospital.

Cadwalader Clegg, 89, of Collegeville R. D. 2, operating the automobile, was not hurt. It is stated that Clegg was driving west on Germantown Pike, 2 1/2 miles east of Collegeville, and attempted a left turn into a farm lane. Reiss was operating his motorcycle east on the same pike when the crash occurred. Smith was wed in June, and is employed by a Doylestown firm.

The Rev. Edmund E. Belber, Lutheran pastor of the Durham-Springtown parish, as guest speaker at a harvest home program at a meeting of the Plumsteadville Grange, Friday evening, compared the lives of most people with a big tree in and out of season. Worthy Master Raymond Goss presided.

Speaking to 45 Grangers, the Rev. Mr. Belber related the story of a barren fig tree which was about to be cut down but the caretaker asked that the fig tree be permitted to stand.

Body of Auto Victim Identified by Brother

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 31—The body of a man fatally hurt when struck by an automobile as he walked along Easton highway, near Warrington, last week, has been identified. Bernard J. Quinn, Newark, N. J., has claimed the body as that of his brother, Richard Quinn.

Local barracks state police said Quinn traced his brother, who had been away from home for a number of years, by a teletype description.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Major General Harry F. Vaughan denied yesterday before a Senate subcommittee investigating the influence of "five percenters" on Government contracts that he had ever acted dishonestly or improperly. President Truman's military aide said that whatever help he might have given business men was without the President's approval or knowledge. He did say he had received campaign funds from John F. Maragon and William Helis, named in previous testimony.

Prospects of an early adjournment of Congress rose when Senator Lucas said he would ask President Truman to defer amendments to the Reciprocal Trade Program until the next session. A week-long Labor Day recess may be agreed to if the Senate completes action today on a wage-hour law. The Administration fought attempts to widen exemptions under the measure.

A $2,000,000 plan to develop the water resources of California's Central Valley was submitted to Congress by Interior Secretary Krug. The measure, virtually eliminating participation by the Army Engineers, was approved by President Truman.

IN A FIGHTING MOOD, Presidential Military Aide Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan (left), emphatically denies any wrongdoing or misuse of office as he appears in Washington before the Senate "five percenters" investigation. He admitted "giving assistance" to John Maragon and to other business representatives, but only under what he termed "proper circumstances." Maragon is shown (right) listening. (International)

NEW LAWS EFFECTIVE IN PENNA. TOMORROW

New Ice Cream and Cold Storage Laws Now In Effect

OTHER LEGISLATION

HARRISBURG, Aug. 31—(INS)—There will be some legal changes made tomorrow.

That's when 249 new State laws are placed officially on the statute books.

Most important of the new statutes taking effect is one requiring all vehicles to come to a full stop when approaching a school bus loading or discharging children.

Apply to 3,000,000 motorists and 200,000 children who regularly ride school buses, the act is designed to eliminate school bus accidents. The law will be effective in all non-residential areas and places where there are no off-the-highway loading zones.

One clause of the act requires all new buses and those re-painted henceforth to be painted "national school bus chrome"—a brighter shade than the present orange color. Other sections require all buses to be equipped with front and rear stop signals and yearly examinations for drivers beginning July 1, 1950.

Other school laws effective tomorrow are topped by statutes providing more liberal pensions for retired teachers. In effect, the acts increase pensions to a $100 monthly minimum for nearly half of the commonwealth's retired classroom instructors.

Major changes in the State's liquor laws also will go into effect. The most noticeable change will be that requiring all liquor and beer establishments to remove all outdoor band display advertising and Alice Suter, State road and Cedar avenue, Croydon, who is employed as a waitress in the Bristol diner, was held up early Saturday morning near the Voltz gasoline station, Bristol pike, south of Mill street, as she was walking home. The Croydon resident was returning to her home, according to the information she gave police, when someone walked up in back of her and stuck "something" in her back.

Whether it was a gun, an instrument, or a hand. She was told to hand over her money and not to turn around. Miss Suter passed her wallet back over her shoulder. It contained $5 or $6. "None of that, kid," said the hold-up man. "We

Named To Vacancy Due To Death of Thomas Scott At Farmers Nat'l Bank

SCHMIDT, VICE-PRES'T

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Farmers National Bank of Bucks County held yesterday in the banking house here, a new president for the 135-year-old institution was named and a new vice-president elected, as well as a new member to the board of directors.

To fill the vacancy in the office of president due to the death of Thomas Scott, the board named Louis C. Spring who has been serving as vice-president.

Jacob C. Schmidt, Sr., a member of the board, and Burgess of Bristol, was elected vice-president to fill the vacancy in that office due to the advancement of Mr. Spring to the presidency.

With the death of Mr. Scott there existed a vacancy on the board of directors and to this John C. Johnson, cashier of the bank, was named. Mr. Spring, who is a native of Bristol, has had a long and wide business experience, he having headed for a number of years the Grundy mills here. He is a member of Bristol borough council, and during his term as chairman of the water committee did much to develop that borough activity.

Mr. Schmidt is a "self-made"

Vaughan replied that he knew nothing about such an FBI investigation, but did admit there was a probe on the other charge.

Views Are Aired ON PROPOSED ZONING LAW

Individuals Express Opinions At Public Meeting Held Here

NOW UP TO COUNCIL

Council President Charles Rathke Presides At Session

Bristol's proposed zoning law was given another airing, last evening, when a public meeting under the direction of borough council, was held in the municipal building. The hearing was on the revised ordinance or the final report to council by the Bristol Zoning Commission. Two previous hearings were held on the preliminary report of the commission several weeks ago, and the report discussed last evening was the final or revised report of the commission, after numerous suggestions and recommendations developing out of the previous meetings had been incorporated in the final report.

Charles G. Rathke, president of council, presided. One-half of the membership of council was present. Those attending were Councilmen Byers, Alta, Myers, Wallace, Egan, Riley and Pearson. Borough Solicitor John Leslie Kilcoyne, Esq., sat in as an observer. Councilman Eagan served as secretary.

Members of the Zoning Commission present were J. B. Johnson, chairman; Harold Hanson, Dr. P. M. Vassaluzzo and Fred Weik.

Two representatives of the Government Consulting Service, Institute of Local and State Government, University of Pennsylvania, Charles Cella and Malcolm Webb, were in attendance. This institute has furnished the technical advice necessary in preparation of the proposed ordinance.

Numerous opinions were expressed and most of those speaking took exceptions to the proposed law. There was no organized opposition, last evening, such as there had been at previous hearings, when the Chamber of Commerce, Mill Street business men, Harriman business men, and others presented oral and written suggestions.

The meeting, last evening, is the final one to be held before the proposed law is submitted to council for action. Whether the law will be taken up immediately by council has not been indicated.

In opening the session Chairman Rathke informed those present that it was a public hearing held by council for the purpose of receiving suggestions and recommendations and to afford an opportunity to the public to discuss the law. "No decisions will be made to night," he stated. "Questions will be answered."

The first question came from Elwood Bilger, who asked: "What is the purpose of zoning?" The answer given by Mr. Cella was to the effect that zoning is an instrument by which a municipality can control its development for its own general welfare.

The question was asked as to the effect on taxation and the answer

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan (Distributed by International News Service)

Two new boons to mankind are the remote-controlled lawnmower and the concrete guitar.

The Massachusetts man who invented the concrete guitar had nothing special in mind for it, he just likes to dabble in concrete, but it would be a handy thing to have at a Paul Robeson concert.

With a couple of musicians equipped with concrete guitars, six or seven with iron flutes and one man with a bronze bass fiddle Mr. Robeson would have NOT only an orchestra but a task force.

Tracing back what happened in Westchester it appears that Mr. Robeson may have been mistaken for a Democrat in high-test Republican territory.

Anyway this electronic lawnmower is a real gift to us all. A fellow can mow his lawn while sitting in the living room merely by moving a small lever on a small box.

And I understand that when a neighbor wants to borrow the lawnmower, moving the lever the opposite direction locks the wheels so he can't budge it. This is worth money.

SKUNKS BY OTHER NAMES

Federal Trade Commission's idea that fur coat makers should call a rabbit a rabbit and a skunk a skunk merits public applause. If there is any place where more "truth in advertising" is needed, it is in fur labeling.

Henry Miller, director of the bureau of trade practice conferences, told a House committee recently that rabbit fur is sold under more than 50 names, none of which is rabbit. He said skunk is called just about everything but that, and ordinary Muskrat is sold as Hudson seal, brook mink, river sable, hudsonia, water mink and the like.

The point made by Miller is that tacking fancy names onto the skins of ordinary animals makes it easy to deceive the public. He also argued that it puts reputable manufacturers and merchants at a disadvantage in competing with less scrupulous rivals. Certainly purchasers do not know what they are buying under the phony fur-labeling system.

Obviously, the purpose in attaching fancy names to fur coats made of the skins of common, ordinary animals is to fool the buyers. Undoubtedly there are people who will buy Arctic seal, beaver, marten, hudson, chinchilla, visonnet, muskratine, but would not be interested if they knew that it was only rabbit.

And some who would turn up their noses at a skunk coat would enthuse over it when it is called dipped marten, black marten or Alaska sable. But there should be honest labeling, even for fur coats.

WHALES THAT GO PING

The underwater search gear used by the Navy during the war used the echo principle to find and locate submarines and underwater objects. The apparatus, it might be said, had a mouth and ears. It made a sound — a high pitched "ping" — and listened to hear what happened to it.

If the impulse hit a solid object, it bounced back, making an other "ping." The interval between pings was converted electronically into range and bearing. The ears also could hear the pings of other searchers, such as submarines. In the Pacific, ships on many occasions picked up pings but couldn't find the source. An expert on oceanography now tells the Navy Department to strike the reports of phantom ships out of its combat annals. They weren't phantoms or Japanese weapons. They were whales. The scientist, whose name, appropriately, is Mrs. Marie Fish, said whales evidently need some help in getting around, so nature built into them an echo range gimmick that can go ping as well as any busy subclasser.

It was common knowledge bats used the radar principle. Now it turns out that whales have a highly developed echo-range machine. Proving that it doesn't pay to get stuck up about man's scientific accomplishments. He drops his guard for a minute, and look what happens. Dame nature throws in something like these pinging whales.

was "no direct effect on taxation."

However the answer was elaborated upon and it was stated that zoning does have some effect on land values.

M. J. Hill, well-known real estate broker, wanted to know what started the idea of zoning in Bristol. "What is the necessity for it?" he asked. He said that he had been instrumental in getting some big industries here and that others had wanted to come here recently, but that he had turned them away because of the zoning agitation.

"It seems to me that the whole thing is wrong," he said. "I don't know that we need zoning here." He said that Bristol is an industrial community and that industry should not be kept out.

Mr. Rathke told Mr. Hill that if Bristol had had zoning 25 years ago that it would now be a better town. He explained how now there is no law here which prohibits objectionable properties alongside of those which are considered an asset to the community.

"We might have had a much better approach to the town if we had had a zoning law," said Mr. Rathke.

W. E. Hayes said that in his opinion we needed more factories in Bristol to put people to work. To this statement Mr. Rathke made it plain that nothing in the zoning law will keep factories out of Bristol.

"We're not trying to keep industries out," said Councilman Edward Riley.

A spokesman for Mrs. Vincent Zober asked that her property at the corner of McKinley street and Farragut avenue be taken out of an R-2 area (for residences only) and placed in a C (commercial) area.

She said that Mrs. Zober owns half of the property at this particular location and that the requested change would not affect any one else. Mrs. Zober, it was stated, purchased the site with the idea of having a little store. It was indicated that she should present her request to council before the ordinance is enacted into law.

In answer to a question by Thomas Jayne, of Superior Zinc Corporation, it was stated that Article 7 has been liberalized in response to the request of business groups, in so far as the previous draft of this section had prohibited some industries which the business groups did not consider obnoxious.

It was contended by Mr. Bilger that there is too much regulation of people's lives with a plumbing code and a zoning ordinance as part of the regulation. He said that a person might have his life savings invested in a property yet he would not be permitted to use it to his best advantage because of the zoning.

Mr. Rathke explained that such things have to be tried and that if they do not work out then they can be changed. He thanked the zoning commission for doing a good job in drafting the law and he thanked the people for attending the hearing and discussing the measure.

As she handed the wallet over her shoulder Miss Suter exposed her wristwatch to the highwayman, and she was told to surrender that, which she did. D'Alfonso did not report the incident to the police, who learned of it through other sources, but not until Monday evening when an investigation started.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

That Unmade Apology

Washington, Aug. 31.
THE recent demand of Judge Samuel J. Rosenman, best-known member of the President's "fact-finding" board to examine into the controversy between the CIO and the United States Steel Company, for an apology from Mr. A. B. Homer, president of the Bethlehem Steel Company, is not without its comic aspect.

FOR these questions arise—wherein was Mr. Rosenman, famed as a speech writer and handy literary man for the late Mr. Roosevelt, insulted? What did Mr. Homer say about him and his two New Deal, pro-CIO colleagues that was not true? First, Mr. Homer charged that the appointment of the board was "irregular." There is no possible denial to that. Quite clearly, Mr. Truman named the board in order to bypass the perfectly simple provisions for exactly this sort of crisis contained in the Taft-Hartley Act, which both Mr. Truman and his violent friend, Mr. Philip Murray of the CIO, denounce as a "slave law."

Second, Mr. Homer asserted that the "fact-finding board" is a "vehicle to force important concessions to the labor union." Well, certainly a similar board in 1946 recommended an 18 1/2 per cent increase for the steel union, which was exactly in line with Mr. Truman's attitude and the CIO's demand.

THE third assertion of Mr. Homer was that this board had been named by Mr. Truman after conference with Mr. Murray, with whom he is politically linked. Precisely which of these allegations caused Mr. Rosenman to feel insulted, no one has revealed. All of them have been repeatedly printed in the newspapers of the country and proudly set forth in CIO propaganda. The White House has not disputed them. Nor, so far as known, has anyone save Judge Rosenman and the violent Mr. Murray taken umbrage at them. That in naming the board Mr. Truman deliberately evaded the Taft-Hartley law to please the CIO; that the 1946 "fact-finding" board had the same political motivation and that he had consulted Mr. Murray about the personnel of the present board has been so widely accepted as to be practically unanimous.

AS a matter of fact, Mr. Homer's charges were couched in moderate language and, under the circumstances, he exhibited considerable restraint. There are a number of persons who feel—and some have said in print—that the board is a joke and a fraud so far as "fact-finding" is concerned; that it is padded with Administration stooges and CIO partisans; that it is rigged to play the CIO-Administration game; that no unprejudiced report can be expected from it. If Judge Rosenman felt insulted by the conservative assertions of Mr. Homer it would be interesting to know what would have been his reaction had Mr. Homer expressed the more extreme views given above and which are held by a great majority of the industrialists of the country. If he demanded an apology for what Mr. Homer said, what would he have demanded had Mr. Homer let himself go and given an unabridged expression of the industry's feelings? One shudders to think. He might have demanded the death sentence.

BEING unable to think of anything he had said that was untrue, unfair or insulting, Mr. Homer did not apologize. He just left Judge Rosenman's demand hanging in the air where it still is. Of course, a situation conceivably might arise that would make it seem Mr. Homer owed the Judge an apology, and in such a situation, doubtless, Mr. Homer would be glad to apologize. For example, it is possible—not probable, of course, but possible—that Judge Rosenman's board, dis-

Indians comprise 11 per cent of Arizona's population.

He might have demanded the death sentence.

BEING unable to think of anything he had said that was untrue, unfair or insulting, Mr. Homer did not apologize. He just left Judge Rosenman's demand hanging in the air where it still is. Of course, a situation conceivably might arise that would make it seem Mr. Homer owed the Judge an apology, and in such a situation, doubtless, Mr. Homer would be glad to apologize. For example, it is possible—not probable, of course, but possible—that Judge Rosenman's board, dis-

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

That Unmade Apology

Washington, Aug. 31.
THE recent demand of Judge Samuel J. Rosenman, best-known member of the President's "fact-finding" board to examine into the controversy between the CIO and the United States Steel Company, for an apology from Mr. A. B. Homer, president of the Bethlehem Steel Company, is not without its comic aspect.

FOR these questions arise—wherein was Mr. Rosenman, famed as a speech writer and handy literary man for the late Mr. Roosevelt, insulted? What did Mr. Homer say about him and his two New Deal, pro-CIO colleagues that was not true? First, Mr. Homer charged that the appointment of the board was "irregular." There is no possible denial to that. Quite clearly, Mr. Truman named the board in order to bypass the perfectly simple provisions for exactly this sort of crisis contained in the Taft-Hartley Act, which both Mr. Truman and his violent friend, Mr. Philip Murray of the CIO, denounce as a "slave law."

Second, Mr. Homer asserted that the "fact-finding board" is a "vehicle to force important concessions to the labor union." Well, certainly a similar board in 1946 recommended an 18 1/2 per cent increase for the steel union, which was exactly in line with Mr. Truman's attitude and the CIO's demand.

THE third assertion of Mr. Homer was that this board had been named by Mr. Truman after conference with Mr. Murray, with whom he is politically linked. Precisely which of these allegations caused Mr. Rosenman to feel insulted, no one has revealed. All of them have been repeatedly printed in the newspapers of the country and proudly set forth in CIO propaganda. The White House has not disputed them. Nor, so far as known, has anyone save Judge Rosenman and the violent Mr. Murray taken umbrage at them. That in naming the board Mr. Truman deliberately evaded the Taft-Hartley law to please the CIO; that the 1946 "fact-finding" board had the same political motivation and that he had consulted Mr. Murray about the personnel of the present board has been so widely accepted as to be practically unanimous.

AS a matter of fact, Mr. Homer's charges were couched in moderate language and, under the circumstances, he exhibited considerable restraint. There are a number of persons who feel—and some have said in print—that the board is a joke and a fraud so far as "fact-finding" is concerned; that it is padded with Administration stooges and CIO partisans; that it is rigged to play the CIO-Administration game; that no unprejudiced report can be expected from it. If Judge Rosenman felt insulted by the conservative assertions of Mr. Homer it would be interesting to know what would have been his reaction had Mr. Homer expressed the more extreme views given above and which are held by a great majority of the industrialists of the country. If he demanded an apology for what Mr. Homer said, what would he have demanded had Mr. Homer let himself go and given an unabridged expression of the industry's feelings? One shudders to think. He might have demanded the death sentence.

BEING unable to think of anything he had said that was untrue, unfair or insulting, Mr. Homer did not apologize. He just left Judge Rosenman's demand hanging in the air where it still is. Of course, a situation conceivably might arise that would make it seem Mr. Homer owed the Judge an apology, and in such a situation, doubtless, Mr. Homer would be glad to apologize. For example, it is possible—not probable, of course, but possible—that Judge Rosenman's board, dis-

WORLD WAR II began just 10 years ago tomorrow—on Sept. 1, 1939, when German troops crossed the Polish border. It lasted exactly six years, ending with the surrender of Japan to the Allies on Sept. 1, 1945. In that period the major nations of the world spent a staggering sum, running into many hundreds of billions of dollars, to prosecute the conflict. Casualties for the major nations involved, totaled in the millions. Of the leaders of the six major nations involved, only two survive—former Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain and Premier Josef Stalin of Russia. United States President Franklin D. Roosevelt died of a cerebral hemorrhage in 1945, near war's end. Reichschancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany apparently committed suicide. Italian Premier Benito Mussolini was killed by Italian Partisans and Premier Tojo of Japan was executed for his war crimes. Pictured are some of the most important events and personalities of the war, together with new weapons developed during the conflict.

Other new liquor laws tighten eligibility requirements for hotel drink-dispensing permits and increase from 72 to 144 ounces the amount of beer permitted to be sold by taproom operators for off-the-premises consumption.

Chief change in the Motor Code is a statute increasing from $50 to $100 the minimum damage required to be reported to the State Revenue Department in motor vehicle accidents.

A long-range highway program will be set in motion as the result of a new act which authorizes a $400,000 survey by an 11-man Highway Planning Commission. The Commission will report its findings to the Governor by November 1, 1950.

Other new laws will: Penalize with a maximum one year jail sentence, or $1000 fine, any person maliciously furnishing false or libelous information to newsmen, newspapers, magazines, radio or television stations; make malicious loitering about a dwelling a punishable crime; allow Pennsylvania beneficiaries to collect payments from out-of-state mail order insurance companies with the aid of the State Insurance Department or Federal courts; prohibit pharmacists to make rebates to physicians for prescription business.

The 1949 General Assembly enacted legislation including a Department of Agriculture budget item of $2,250,000 for control and eradication of diseases of livestock. This will make possible the starting this fall of a program of free vaccination of beef and dairy calves in the State's fight against Bang disease, greatest scourge of cattle now existing in Pennsylvania, says Miles Horst, secretary of agriculture.

On the consumer side, new ice cream and cold storage laws become effective September 1, along with an act of the Legislature to register and control establishments where horses are slaughtered for animal feeding. This latter statute is designed to prevent horse meat, including that taken from animals that die of natural causes, from getting into channels for human consumption.

Amendments to simplify enforcement by the Department of Agriculture of eleven existing food laws also become effective September 1. Another amendment gives milk dealers permission to standardize or make uniform the butterfat content of the milk they distribute, effective September 1. Such standardization is not compulsory, however.

Farm legislation approved by Governor Duff and now in effect, includes refund of 50 per cent of the State tax on gasoline used in food production on farms; removal of red tape in the granting of permits and substantial reduction in fees for the movement of combines and other large farm machines over public highways; use of sulfanilamide in feeds prepared by licensed feed dealers without necessity of a practitioner's prescription for prevention and control of poultry diseases; State aid for barberry eradication in control of stem rust of grain crops; funds for investigation work in nut tree culture; State funds for the purchase of livestock for experimental work and propagation at the Pennsylvania State College, and funds to continue research at the Agricultural Experiment Station at the college.

Four changes in Pennsylvania weights and measures laws, enacted by the 1949 session of the Legislature, will become effective September 1, Secretary of Internal Affairs, William S. Livingston, Jr., announced today.

Act 159, approved April 21, 1949, changes the penalty section in the fruit and vegetable unbroken standard container act to conform with penalty sections in all other weights and measures laws providing a compulsory minimum fine of $25 for the first offense.

Act 160, approved April 21, 1949, is an amendment to the solid fuel laws. In addition to the vehicle license number required to be inserted on weighmaster's certificates, the trailer number must also be inserted on the certificate when a trailer is used, under the amended law, which permits the confiscation of weighmaster's certificates by inspectors of Weights and Measures from the place of issue for use as evidence in prosecution. Any person furnishing a false name or address of a purchaser to a licensed weighmaster will be in violation of the law and subject to the penalties thereof.

Act 214, approved May 2, 1949, provides that any state, county or city inspector of weights and measures in whose presence a violation of the commodity act is being committed by any person who has no established business location in the Commonwealth will have power to arrest without warrant the offender and take him before an alderman, magistrate or justice of the peace of the city or county where the offense is committed and file information against the offender.

Act 330, approved May 11, 1949, regulates delivery of light fuel oil to domestic consumers. No person, under this act, may deliver light fuel oil to any domestic consumer unless the vehicle is equipped with a meter of a type approved under the provisions of the act of the General Assembly of May 5, 1921. Fuel oil deliveries of 50 gallons or less may be delivered without being metered provided the delivery is made in a standard approved measure of not less than five gallons capacity.

The act does not affect the deliveries of heavy fuel oils or light fuel oils to industrial plants nor where the entire truck tank load of light fuel oil or the entire load of an individual compartment of the truck tank is delivered to a single domestic consumer, provided the tank truck is of a type approved as per provisions of the act approved May 5, 1921.

Acting Secretary of Revenue Otto F. Messner announced today that the law in regard to reporting motor vehicle accidents is subject to an important change on September 1, 1949.

The 1949 Legislature revised the limit for reporting property damage from $50 to $100, which is the minimum figure for reporting damage to the property of any one person.

This means that a person involved in a motor vehicle accident in which any motor vehicle or any other property is damaged to the extent of one hundred dollars ($100.00) or more must report the accident to the Department of Revenue within twenty-four (24) hours, under penalty of suspension of his operator's license. It was pointed out that the obligation is on the individual operator, from which he is not relieved because some one else rendered a report, or if the operator himself renders a report to some other agency, such as an insurance company, a motor club, a local police department, the I.C.C. or the P.U.C.

Messner particularly stressed the fact that there had been no change in the law in regard to injury or death to any persons, regardless of the amount of property damage. If an operator is in doubt of his duty under the law to report an accident, the safest plan is to fill out a form and send it to the Department.

The Department advises all agencies and operators that the forms now in their hands may be used until such time as it is possible to secure and furnish revised forms carrying the new property damage limit. New forms are now being printed and will be distributed as soon as they are received by the Department.

In the Middle Ages the educational titles doctor, master, and professor were synonymous.

N. Y., two years ago; and in Philadelphia last year. She readily answered a few questions put to her as she was televised during the parade. Helene, a pupil at St. Ann's parochial school, will enter third grade this year.

Bracken Post Cadets' uniforms of cream and orange (with hats of mother of pearl and orange plumes) made a striking note of color in the line of march.

The Jesse W. Soby Post Junior Drum and Bugle Corps members attracted much attention in their blue and white uniforms. They, too, passed the reviewing stand during the evening hours. Soby Post Cadet Corps has in its membership many girls and boys from the Langhorne, Pennell, Hulmeville and Middletown township areas.

Bracken Post Senior Drum and Bugle Corps, composed of overseas

veterans, was also roundly applauded.

Another Bucks County unit in the parade was Company D, 11th Infantry Regimental Combat Team, Penna. National Guard, Doylestown. Capt. Aaron C. Griffiths, Jr., was in command of approximately 40 guardsmen in sultan uniforms, white gloves, helmet liners, and carrying arms.

This afternoon the state flag of Georgia will fly from the pole at Bracken Post home on the occasion of the visit by a delegation from Georgia. In the group will be several delegates who are backing Earl Coker, Jr., of Georgia, for national commander. The guests will visit the post home, then take a tour to Manhattan Soap Company, and to Pennsbury Manor.

"Without the shedding of blood there is no remission for sin." Sin cannot be covered by good works, no matter how sincerely they may be carried out. There can be no forgiveness of sin apart from the suffering on Calvary by the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ. He did not die because He was tricked into the cross. He did not die because he was a martyr. He did not die to show us how a good man ought to die. Jesus died that by the shedding of sinless blood, all who believe might be redeemed from their sins and have eternal life in him. In order to offer you salvation, Jesus Christ had to pass through the suffering of a death that no man shall experience as He did. He would not have done this, except that there was no other way. Trust this same Jesus as your Lord and Savior today.

Gas When You Need It

THE DEMAND for gas varies with every whim of weather or family pleasure. Let the mercury hit the torrid nineties in summer, and the call for gas falls off. When it dives below freezing in winter, on go the burners. Returning vacationists, maids' days off, a sudden week-end exodus, and all manner of other things have a part in influencing the call for more gas or less gas, often in a brief period. Yet come what may, the gas must be there when needed.

Every hour the demand fluctuates along the 1,000 miles of Philadelphia Electric Company's gas pipe lines. To assure a steady pressure at every point, for every hour of the day or night, your gas company maintains scores of recording stations throughout its territory. The rise and fall of the use of gas, as burners go on and off, is recorded hour by hour at these stations, and flashed to distribution centers, where pressure is regulated.

Seeing that gas is always ready is the full-time job of the men and women of the gas department of the Company. Their expert "know how" and conscientious effort, plus round-the-clock attention to details, explains why there is quality gas and the right pressure awaiting your call at all times.
